

Angola: Forum On Energy Opens Tuesday in Luanda

4 May 2010

Luanda — A forum on the energetic industry, that will join investors of the Southern Africa Development Community, will happen on 4-7 May, in Luanda, in an initiative of the Infrastructure Partnerships for African Development (IPAD).

According to a statement from IPAD, which ANGOP has checked, the event constitutes an opportunity for the establishment of partnerships in the sector of energy industry.

According to the programme of the event, the forum will discuss issues related to "The development of independent energy", "The role of Angola in Southern Africa energy sector" and "The development of regional co-operation" as well as "The role of investment in the Angolan oil sector, a legal perspective". Specialists and governmental entities are participating in the event.
